From the President's Desk . . .

WHAT DO YOU as an alumnus want your alma mater to be in the years ahead? Do you want Bridgewater to enroll a larger number of choice youth, that more young people might have the advantages that were once yours? Do you want B. C. to continue to maintain a faculty of highest quality? Do you want your college to assume an increasingly higher rank among the colleges of our size and type in the nation? If you desire these good things for your alma mater, what will you do to help achieve them?

Last year 839 alumni contributed a total of $35,352 to the Alumni Fund, an average of $42.13 per gift. For this we are profoundly grateful. However, for the past two years only 16.1 per cent of our alumni have made gifts to the college, in comparison with 22 per cent for colleges nationwide. In many colleges 50 per cent or more of the alumni remember their college with annual gifts. Is it not time for us to double or even triple the percentage of alumni gifts and also the size of gifts?

The businessmen and corporations of Virginia and the nation contributed $477,525 to the Virginia Foundation for Independent Colleges in 1958-59. Bridgewater's share was $29,891, which is more than four-fifths as much as the combined giving of our alumni for the year. Businessmen and corporations look carefully at alumni contributions and are motivated to give to an institution somewhat in proportion to its alumni support. A number of corporations have established programs whereby the corporation matches the gift an alumnus makes to his alma mater, up to a certain amount. Your support to your alma mater means more than the monetary value; it inspires others to give.

Let us take a serious look at the Alumni Fund and say, "It should be much larger, and I'll help to make it so."

Yours for a finer B. C.,

BRIDGEWATER BRIEFS . . .

WRIGHT HALL

Men's Dormitory Dedicated

THE NEWEST BUILDING on the B. C. campus, the new dormitory for men, was dedicated in a fitting ceremony as the climax of Homecoming October 3.

Held in the spacious recreation room on the ground floor of the new building, the facilities were taxed to capacity with the throng who had just attended the football game. Mr. Lowell A. Miller, business manager of the college, presided over the brief program, and President Warren D. Bowman spoke of the significance and use of the building.

The program was opened by Mr. Miller as he recounted the developments which made the building possible. Mr. Samuel Shrum, executive vice president of the Nielsen Construction Company, presented the key to Mr. R. Douglas Nininger, president of the board of trustees, who in turn entrusted it to President Bowman. The program was concluded with a prayer of dedication by Rev. I. C. Senger, former president of the board.

A part of the festive occasion was the open house throughout the new dormitory following the dedication and the refreshments served at the conclusion of the program. An artificial birthday cake graced the room as did many beautiful floral arrangements presented with the good wishes of many friends.

Building in Use

Ever since the beginning of the fall session the new dormitory has been in use. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hylton are the directors of the west wing. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wright are directors of the middle wing, with Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Lam in charge of the east wing. Each couple has a lovely apartment and supervises the men of the first, second, and third floors of their respective wings. Lounges in each wing are in addition to the facilities in the basement. On this ground floor are study rooms for day students, a recreation room with television, vending machines for refreshments, a laundry with coin-operated laundromats and drying rooms.

Parking Facilities Available

In the rear of the new dormitory where the old temporary North Hall Annex had stood, the surface was macadamized and parking lanes marked off. The whole area between the new dorm, North Hall, and the science building now provides for approximately seventy-five cars in addition to the area along Dinkle Avenue.

Trustees Name New Buildings

AT THEIR NOVEMBER annual meeting, the college Board of Trustees approved the names of B. C.'s newest buildings as recommended by a faculty study committee. However, the naming of the health and physical education building and the athletic field were held for further study.

The science building, constructed in 1953 was named Bowman Hall in honor of two men of that name who have meant much to Bridgewater College: Samuel M. Bowman in giving his farm to the college has made one of the largest financial contributions to the school, seeking to further the scientific education of youth. Dr. Paul H. Bowman '10, served for more than a quarter of a century as president of Bridgewater College and initiated the plans for the erection of the building.

The new men's dormitory was named Wright Hall in honor of two brothers who have distinguished themselves in the field of education and service to Bridgewater: Dr. Charles C. Wright '18 and Dr. Frank J. Wright '08. Dr. C. C. Wright served B. C. in approximately every possible administrative position. He was professor of economics, business manager, treasurer, dean of students, and acting president. Dr. Frank J. Wright taught at Bridgewater for some years before going to Ohio.

The proposed library was designated as the Mack-Sauer Memorial Library in memory of the founder and one of the early leaders of the Church of the Brethren, Alexander Mack and Christopher Sauer. In his search and study for a better way of life, Alexander Mack with seven other consecrated souls began the Church of the Brethren. Christopher Sauer printed the first Bibles in the German language in America and was influential in establishing not only a Sunday school but also an early private school in the Germantown (Pa.) area. Bridgewater College possesses the personal Bible of Alexander Mack and a number of the early editions of the Sauer Bible. Thus, it is fitting that the proposed library should bear the names of both of these leaders of the denomination sponsoring this college.

Names for several other future buildings to be constructed on the campus were agreed upon by the trustees. Moomaw Hall, which will house the home economics department, will honor Leland G. and Nina K. Moomaw of Roanoke whose benefactions to Bridgewater total more than $100,000.

A future classroom and administration building will bear the name of Flory Hall, honoring the late D. C. Flory, founder of the college in 1880, and Dr. John S. Flory who was associated with the college for 44 years as professor of English literature and as president. A future residence hall for women will be called Daleville Hall, honoring Daleville College which was consolidated with B. C. in 1923, and will form a twin with the present Blue Ridge Hall which commemorates the former Blue Ridge College.

Eight B. C. Seniors Selected For Who's Who

THIS YEAR eight Bridgewater seniors have been selected to appear in the 1959 edition of Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges.

Gail Conlon from Meyersdale, Pa., is president of the student body, and is a member of the girls' varsity hockey, basketball, and tennis teams.

Fred Diehl, Staunton, Va., is a biology major who was a four-letter man in football, basketball, tennis and track.

Robert Flora, a chemistry major from Richmond, Va., has been an honor student throughout his college years at B. C. He has been active in the science club, B. C. Bee staff, Student Senate, and the cross-country team.

Thomas Geiman, an honor student from Baltimore, Md., is president of the Curtain Club, vice president of the senior class, a member of the touring Glee Club, chapel choir, Clericus, and S. C. A.

Iva Hylton is from Floyd, Va., and is also an honor student. She is editor of the 1960 Ripples and head of the B.S.C.M. conference held on our campus at Thanksgiving. She has also been a member of the Curtain Club, S.C.A., C.B.Y.F., and served as secretary-treasurer of the Alpha Psi Omega.

Donald Jordan is a pre-ministerial student from Roanoke, Va., and has been active in Glee Club, co-chairman of S.C.A., and vice president of Clericus.

Jack Stapleton is from Deland, Florida. As a pre-ministerial student he has served as president and secretary of the Clericus, business manager of the B. C. Bee and Ripples, and has served on the Student Senate.

James Sperry, also from Meyersdale, Pa., has served as president of the C.B.Y.F., co-chairman of the S.C.A., sports editor and editor-in-chief of the B. C. Bee, and a member of the Student Senate.

BOWMAN HALL (Science Building)

Record Enrollment In 80th Session

BRIDGEWATER COLLEGE opened its 80th session last September with a record enrollment of 550 students. There were 185 freshmen, the largest first-year class in the school's history. Upperclass registrations totaled 365, among them 39 transfers from other institutions.

Besides the new faculty members announced at the beginning of the year, Mr. James Keeler '57, a partner of Heuston and Keeler, certified public accountants of Harrisonburg, Va., is teaching one course in the business administration department.

This year's enrollment filled all facilities to capacity. The alumni guest rooms in Blue Ridge Hall have been taken for student dormitory space. In place of these rooms, a guest apartment with two bedrooms has been provided in the Virginia Cole Strickler Apartment. This will provide adequate accommodations for visiting professors or guests of the college.

B. C. Host To BSCM Conference

OVER THE THANKSGIVING HOLIDAYS Bridgewater College was host to the annual Brethren Student Christian Movement Conference with representatives attending from the six colleges of the Church of the Brethren, the one Brethren college, and the Bethany Biblical Seminary.

The general theme this year was "The Gone Generation" and brought such leaders as Dr. Kermit Eby, University of Chicago; Mr. Joseph Long, Elgin, Ill.; Mr. Clarence Jordan, Koinonia Farms, Georgia; and faculty leaders from the represented institutions.

Students and faculty from the following institutions were present: Ashland College, Bethany Biblical Seminary, Bridgewater College, Elizabethtown College, Juniata College, LaVerne College, Manchester College, and McPherson College.

Theatre Stars On B.C. Lyceum Program

RAYMOND MASSEY, world-renowned actor of stage, screen, and television, will climax Bridgewater College's lyceum season with an appearance in Cole Hall on Monday evening, February 29, at 8:15 P. M. in "A Literary Concert Concerning Great Americans."

Mr. Massey, best known for his portrayal of Lincoln and other great Americans, will present an inspiring program of characterizations and dramatic readings which will attract a capacity crowd. Since no seats are reserved for lyceum programs and seating will be limited, it is expected that many will come unusually early to attend this outstanding program.

The drama, "Bell, Book, and Candle," will be presented by the Masters Production on Monday evening, January 18, also at 8:15 P. M. in Cole Hall. This nationally-known drama group is noted for the excellent quality of their productions, and their appearance in Cole Hall will bring to the campus and community one of the most interesting stage hits.

Tickets are available for these two outstanding lyceum programs at $1.00 each at the door on the night of the performance.

B. C. In-Service Institute Enrolls Thirty

THIRTY SECONDARY SCHOOL TEACHERS are enrolled in the after-school-hours in-service institute in science and mathematics being conducted at Bridgewater College each Tuesday evening.

The teachers enrolled in the Institute, sponsored by a grant from the National Science Foundation, are from private and public schools located in Augusta, Page, Shenandoah, and Rockingham Counties in Virginia, Hardy County in West Virginia, and the cities of Harrisonburg and Staunton.

Dr. Harry Jopson, head of the Biology Department, is director of the Institute and teaches one course. Other teachers include Dr. J. Emmert Ikenberry '28, head of the Division of Mathematics and Natural Sciences, Madison College; Dr. Lowell V. Heisey, head of the B. C. Chemistry Department; and Dr. Frances Silliman, professor of biology at Bridgewater.

Ten enrollees are studying math, five are studying chemistry, and fifteen are studying biology. The N. S. F. is sponsoring the institute to improve the quality of the teaching of mathematics and science in rural schools by providing teachers in these fields the opportunity to continue their study in math and science while on the job. The Foundation has underwritten this unique institute to the amount of $14,710 which is earmarked for salaries of instructors and the mileage of secondary teachers enrolled in the Institute. Bridgewater College, the cooperating institution, provides classrooms, laboratories, and supplies.

is the only year needed in the alumni office to complete the yearbook file. Thanks is extended to Dr. Bernard Logan who supplied a 1938 edition.

B. C. Faculty Active In Professions

MEMBERS OF THE BRIDGEWATER College faculty, besides carrying heavy teaching loads on the campus, are distinguishing themselves in their chosen professions by heading significant groups and contributing to national conferences and publications.

Early in the year, Dr. Frances E. Silliman, professor of biology, had published in the American Journal of Botany an article entitled, "An Analysis of a Colony of Hybrid Oaks." She has had another article published by this learned journal in the last several months.

Drs. Lowell V. Heisey and Thurman Grossnickle of the B. C. Chemistry Department attended the 136th National Meeting of the American Chemical Society held at Atlantic City September 13-18. Dr. Heisey also attended the tenth annual Infrared Spectroscopy Institute at Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn., and the Science Teachers' Conference sponsored by the National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md.

Dr. William G. Willoughby, professor of philosophy and religion at Bridgewater, was named president of the Virginia Philosophical Association at the state organization's fall meeting at Hollins College. He served as secretary of the organization last year.

Dr. Bernard Logan, head of the Department of Business and Economics, together with two students, attended the World Trade Conference held at Old Point Comfort (Va.) October 22-23. The students were John O. Baugher, Waynesboro, Va., and James D. Bowman, Orlando, Fla., both business administration majors.

Daniel Geiser, B. C. athletic director, has passed all of his requirements for the Doctor of Philosophy degree in physical education at Columbia University and has been awarded a doctoral certificate until the degree can be formally conferred next June.

Dr. Raymond Andes and Professor Clarence E. May both attended the Conference on Modern Languages at Atlanta, Georgia, early in November.

Professor Donald Clague was elected chairman of the District Board of the Second District of Virginia, Church of the Brethren. He also serves as the program chairman of the local Rotary Club.

Professor David Metzler along with Rev. Ira Petre, missionary on furlough, are jointly serving the Barren Ridge Church of the Brethren on alternate Sundays as interim ministers.

The Harrisonburg-Rockingham Veterans' Band is directed again this year by Roger E. Cole, assistant professor of music at the college.

Bridgewater College observed Veterans' Day in the regularly scheduled chapel by presenting a panel discussion by four faculty members on the prevention of war. Those participating were Professor Victor Glick and Dr. Roger E. Sappington of the History Department, Professor David Metzler of the Bible and Religion Department, and Dr. Lowell V. Heisey, head of the Chemistry Department.

President Warren D. Bowman and Dean John W. Boitnott will attend the annual meeting of the American Association of Colleges and Universities to be held in Boston, Mass., the middle of January.

Professor George W. Kent, head of the Psychology Department of the college, leads a seminar each week with the psychology staff of the Western State Hospital, Staunton, Va., on recent development in the general field of psychology. These clinical psychologists meet with the B. C. students enrolled in abnormal psychology for discussions of special topics in the field of behavior pathology.

Church Student Groups Active On Campus

SEVERAL DENOMINATIONAL student groups are active on the campus this year. The CBYF, the religious youth organization of the Church of the Brethren, is headed by Harry Rinehart, Westminster, Md., as president and Professor Dale Ulrich as advisor. CBYF tries to take the place of the home church activities while the students are away from home.

The Wesleyan group of the Methodist Church participated in the annual all-state conference of the Methodist Student Movement held October 31 to November 1 at Radford. The year's activities will include a retreat, joint meetings with Madison College, and other features. Professor David Winfrey is the faculty advisor of the group.

The Baptist Church of Harrisonburg provides Sunday bus service for all B. C. Baptist students desiring transportation to their church services. They are picked up at Blue Ridge Hall and returned in time for Sunday dinner.

Fire Standards Improved

DURING THE SUMMER extensive improvements were made in most of the buildings on the campus to conform to the state fire marshal's code. More than fifteen thousand dollars was spent on replacing heavy-duty fire escapes on Memorial and Founders Halls. Stairways in all residence buildings were equipped with casements and fire doors. Emergency exit lights were installed in several of the buildings as well. In Wardo where a directors apartment was provided, a new rear exit was also made available.

ITS 80th ANNIVERSARY
IN CHRISTIAN HIGHER EDUCATION

Brethren Day On Campus

OVER 350 HIGH SCHOOL juniors and seniors from five states, together with their pastors and counselors, attended the Church of the Brethren Day on the Bridgewater College campus Saturday, November 14. The youth came from North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, and Maryland.

Besides touring the campus and seeing first hand B. C.'s modern facilities, the youth were instructed in the college's admission requirements, its programs of studies and procedures to be followed in making an application for admission. While they were being addressed in Cole Hall, the ministers and counselors were also meeting with the college officials concerning their opportunities and responsibilities.

After a buffet luncheon as guests of the college, groups of college students acted as guides for the visitors touring the campus.

Two Exhibits At B. C.

EARLY IN OCTOBER two significant collections were on exhibit on the Bridgewater campus.

A collection of artifacts excavated from a low hill called the Mound of the Pillar, eight miles north of Jerusalem, was loaned to the college Department of Bible and Religion by the Palestine Institute of the Pacific School of Religion, Berkeley, Cal. The exhibit contained a variety of oil lamps dating from early Hebrew times, a cosmetics vase, footbath, coins, jewelry, pitcher, and many other artifacts, some over 5,000 years old.

An art exhibit was made possible over Homecoming by Paul Kline, B. C. instructor in art. He had on exhibit his etchings, woodblock prints, and sculpture. The exhibit featured his "Reflections in Blue and Green," a print shown in the 1959 artists exhibition in the Virginia Museum.

Institute To Bring Dr. Trueblood

THE SIXTY-FOURTH ANNUAL Spiritual Life Institute, to be held this year February 9-11, 1960, will bring to the Bridgewater College campus the nationally-known writer, philosopher, and educator, Dr. D. Elton Trueblood, professor of philosophy, Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana.

This annual institute will attract ministers and church leaders from approximately ten states and the District of Columbia. It will open with the meeting of the S. E. Regional Board on Tuesday, February 9, with the first public service on that evening. Other guest leaders will include Rev. Earl M. Zigler, just returned missionary from India, Rev. Ira S. Petre, missionary on furlough from Africa, Dr. M. R. Zigler, World Council of Churches, and Dr. Paul H. Bowman, president-emeritus of Bridgewater College. Each of these outstanding leaders will give two addresses while Dr. Trueblood will present five messages during the conference.

Preparations are being made to accommodate the large number of ministers and leaders of the region who are expected to make reservations for this annual religious conference.

B. C. Junior U. S. Youth Chairman

WARREN "SAM" MILLER '61, chairman of the S. E. Regional Church of the Brethren Youth Fellowship, has been named national chairman of the C.B.Y.F. at the fall meeting of the National Youth Cabinet of the Church of the Brethren, held in Elgin, Ill.

German Professor Visiting B. C. Scientist

DR. HORST JENSSEN from the University of Hamburg, Germany, is giving full-time post doctoral work to the research project being conducted on the Bridgewater campus by the Chemistry Department. This project, for which several research grants have been received, is converting chemical substances in plants to substances similar to chemical hormones in animals.

These substances are to be tested and the biological effects observed to see if anything can be learned about the cause of disease. The project began in January, 1957, and undergraduate students have been working on it during the summer.

Dr. Jenssen, however, will be working full time on the project this year. Instead of receiving a B.S. or B.A. degree when he graduated, Dr. Jenssen received a diploma degree which is the same as a M.S. degree. Then after two years, he received his Doctor's degree. He arrived on the B. C. campus on October 28.

B. C. Singers In V. E. A. Concert

EIGHT BRIDGEWATER COLLEGE students participated in the 1959 V. E. A. Choral Clinic held in Richmond, Va., October 29-30 in connection with the state-wide Virginia Education Association Conference.

For the second straight year a Bridgewater College student was selected for a solo part in the concert. Miss Jewel Miller, Arlington (Va.), senior, received the only soprano solo in this year's choral clinic concert.

More than fifty alumni and friends attended the B. C. alumni coffee hour in the Lee Room of the Hotel John Marshall on Friday, October 30, from 3 to 5 in the afternoon. This is an annual informal occasion held during the V. E. A. Convention.

New Chairman of Bridgewater Trustee Board Is An Alumnus of Varied Interests

by C. E. MAY '24

R. DOUGLAS NININGER '28 of Salem, named last June as chairman of the Bridgewater College Board of Trustees, is an educator, a businessman, a churchman and civic-minded citizen, and a traveler.

Following graduation from Bridgewater in 1928, he was a public educator for 27 years, serving successively as teacher, principal, director of instruction, and superintendent. He was principal of William Fleming High School from 1933-42, director of instruction in Roanoke County schools from 1942-45, and division superintendent of the county schools from 1945-55.

Since his resignation as division superintendent in 1955, he has headed up a residential subdivision development and sales agency in Roanoke City and County. Mr. Nininger's interest in real estate stems from the residential subdivision which was developed from his father's farm. This farm, which was located on Williamson Road, is now a part of Roanoke City.

Mr. Nininger is a member of the Roanoke Central Church of the Brethren. He is chairman of the Board of Deacons of his church, a former chairman of the Finance Board, and a Sunday School teacher. He is chairman of the Roanoke County Public Library Board, a charter member and past president of the Roanoke Williamson Road Lions Club, a member of the Board of Directors of the Roanoke Valley Drama Association, a member of the Roanoke Valley Chapter of the International Torch Club, and also a member of the Roanoke Amateur Astronomers Club.

Mr. Nininger and his wife, the former Ruth Miller '29 of Bridgewater, are greatly interested in travel.

They have visited eight European countries, Jamaica, the Dominican Republic, and Virgin Islands in the Caribbean, four of the Canadian Provinces, eight states of the Republic of Mexico, and forty-seven of the fifty United States.

Mr. Nininger's interest in travel developed early. In the summer of 1928, following graduation from Bridgewater, he and three classmates from the Roanoke area drove to California and back in a second-hand Chevrolet which they bought for $150. His three companions were Raymond Peters of Franklin County and Cecil and Emmert Ikenberry of the Daleville community. Raymond Peters '28 is now pastor of a Church of the Brethren in Dayton, Ohio; Cecil Ikenberry '28 is public relations officer for the Rockingham National Bank, Harrisonburg; and Emmert Ikenberry '28 is head of the Division of Science and Mathematics at Madison College.

These four Virginia ramblers made their trans-continental trek presumably to attend the Annual Conference of the Church of the Brethren at LaVerne and the World Sunday School Conference at Los Angeles. They financed their trip by giving programs in churches while en route and by working in a cannery in California. They made whatever mechanical repairs on the Chevrolet that became necessary, prepared their own meals, and slept under the stars. On the journey Douglas Nininger was cook, Cecil Ikenberry, mechanic, Raymond Peters, general manager; and Emmert Ikenberry, treasurer. Upon arriving home, besides the Chevrolet, they had $50 in the treasury.

Mr. Nininger succeeded I. C. Senger '08 of Linville this year as chairman of the Bridgewater College Board of Trustees. Facing the Board during Mr. Nininger's term of office will be the problem of providing facilities for the increasing number of students demanding admission to Bridgewater. Present plans call for increasing the enrollment to 800 by 1970. Before this can be done, $4,000,000 will have to be raised for building dormitories, classrooms, a library, a student union building, an administration building, a fine arts building, and a home economics building.

Mr. Nininger is a son of the late Elmer Nininger who owned a farm on Williamson Road. His grandfather was B. F. Nininger, a great benefactor of Daleville College, which was consolidated with Bridgewater in 1928. Among the many benefactions of B. F. Nininger to Daleville was the homestead of his father in 1909 and a substantial sum the same year for building a residence hall for women.

Alumni In The News . . .

Alumni Named In Fall Election

IN THE FALL ELECTION in Rockingham County B. C. alumni were prominent throughout the ballot of both political parties. The majority of the victors in the local balloting claim Bridgewater as their alma mater.

To the Virginia State House of Delegates both Charles W. Wampler, Jr. '35x and Lawrence H. Hoover '27 were reelected for another term.

James R. Siple was elected Commonwealth's Attorney over the incumbent, Charles E. Earman, Jr., '39x. For County Treasurer, Dwight L. Estep '35 won the election while Mark A. Logan '38x was nosed out for the position of County Clerk by J. Robert Switzer, holder of the office for many years.

THE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY of Dr. Charles Conrad Wright '18 and Mrs. Ethel Bowman Wright '09 was celebrated on Saturday afternoon, October 24, 1959, in the College Street Church of the Brethren in a reception given them by their children. A multitude of alumni and friends joined in the festive occasion honoring the Wrights who have meant so much to Bridgewater College.

Father-Son Alumni Operate Motel For Flying Tourists

“DRIVE IN OR FLY IN” is the slogan of the Pure Village Inn, owned and operated by two Bridgewater alumni, O. K. Early '10 and son Kermit Early '47.

The father-son team attracts some fast-moving customers with an unusual inducement to stop at their place: a private air strip behind the motel. The 2,000-foot strip, marked by white-painted tires, was installed in 1947. Since then, although they don't offer gassing-up facilities, the Earlys say they have done a pretty fair business from winged patrons. Sometimes there are four or five a week and then sometimes none, but it averages about two planes a week that drop in on them.

Until last June the strip boasted a perfect safety record, but it was marred slightly when a small army plane retracted its landing gear too soon on a take-off and nosed into the ground—without injury to the passengers.

Sometimes hazardous, also, are slow moving cows that slip back into their former pasture.

The popular motel and air strip are located four miles south of Harrisonburg, Va., along U. S. Route 11 not far from Bridgewater. It is frequently used by alumni and friends returning to the campus. On more than one occasion the senior Early has offered to keep old alumni friends in his own home when all his cottages were filled.

Both father and son still do quite a bit of flying in their 1953 model plane, though they confess it is “strictly entertainment—for Sunday around-the-block driving and that sort of thing.” Mr. Early, now 70 years of age, still keeps his hand in it and does most of the flying, having flown to Florida several years ago. However, the motel business keeps the feet of both alumni pretty much on the ground.

B. C.'s $50,000 Challenge . . .

(This Program Is Not Rigged!)

ALUMNI OF BRIDGEWATER COLLEGE are in the midst of their own $50,000 CHALLENGE PROGRAM but with no connection to the much-discussed TV quiz programs. Your $50,000 challenge is the goal of this year's Alumni Loyalty Fund.

Last year the alumni gave to their alma mater $35,352 in an effort to meet the goal with only 839 alumni making cash gifts or pledge payments. In raising this goodly sum last year, actually the percentage of alumni contributors remained exactly the same as the year before, 16.1 per cent. The main attention this year is on increasing the number of alumni participating in the annual Alumni Loyalty Fund.

Challenge to More Alumni

Plans are underway to challenge more alumni to make some contribution to the B. C. Alumni Fund this year, whether large or small. Alumni classes, especially those in reunion, are being asked to contact their classmates to make a "Birthday Gift" to the college in memory of their class and in honor of Bridgewater's 80th anniversary.

Chapters to Help

Materials are being worked out so that local alumni chapters can organize to contact the alumni living in their area, inviting them to join them in making an annual gift to the college. Already fliers and reporting cards have been secured for the use of chapters and classes.

Possible Matching Challenge

In line with the tremendous impact of the Wofford College alumni matching program of several years ago when Mr. Roger Milliken challenged the Wofford alumni to increase their giving to their alma mater by offering to match with a cash gift every percentage point of increase over the previous year, B. C. alumni could be challenged to greatly increase their own percentage of giving. Do we have any alumnus or several alumni who would like to take on their fellow classmates in such a program? It is conceived that in a modest way some person or persons could stimulate more alumni to contribute to help raise the 16.1 per cent to 30 per cent or 50 per cent by offering to match every percentage point of increase this year by a personal gift of $25, $50, or $100 up to a 50 per cent goal.

Industry Aids Colleges Alumni Help

It is a proven fact that private industry and foundations are much more ready to aid institutions whose alumni are giving enthusiastic financial support. An editorial in the Saturday Evening Post of April 25, 1959, states: "Alumni willingness to help their 'old schools' has a double-barreled effect. Not only do alumni fund drives provide colleges with much-needed funds; they also provide industry with a check on alumni loyalty, which has a bearing on a corporation's willingness to contribute."

In awarding Texas A. and M. highest honors in the recent American Alumni Council's first Alumni Incentive Awards Program, Dr. William W. Whitehouse, president of the Association of American Colleges, said: "If our own graduates do not believe in their colleges and back up that belief with their gifts, why should business and industry be asked to contribute?"

It is significant that the U. S. Steel Foundation, which donated the funds to make possible the Alumni Incentive Awards this year, for some time has based to a considerable degree its corporation grants to colleges on alumni support. Thus Bridgewater will more likely be in a better position to receive help if the alumni themselves first reveal their own loyalty and faith in their alma mater.

Faculty Already Sharing

Many members of the college faculty and staff, while not receiving lucrative salaries, are seeking to do their part by either outright sacrificial gifts or by a system of substantial payroll deductions.

Your Help Needed

Thus, in the midst of the 80th anniversary of one of the finest small co-educational colleges of the South, every effort needs to be made by every alumnus to reach the challenge goal of $50,000 this year. This will insure the bond payments for this year on the new gym, it will bring needed physical improvements and equipment to your college, faced with a tremendous student population increase next year.

With inflationary prices, gifts of one, five, or ten dollars do not go so far as a few years ago. There is need for all alumni to step up the amounts of their annual gifts to the college. The pressing calls of unified church budgets and community united funds must be answered but always keeping in mind the pressing needs of the private liberal arts college faced with the avalanche of problems caused by the rising tide of war babies knocking on their doors.

Thus B. C. alumni are challenged as never before to rise to this year's minimum goal of $50,000 and to get closer to 50 per cent of the alumni working and sharing in this program. At the year's end (June 30, 1960) there will be a report revealing the best class participation as well as perhaps the chapter or area work. Besides the Sustaining Fund membership (those who have contributed $50 or more in cash) it is hoped that other groupings or clubs such as the One Hundred Dollar, Five Hundred Dollar, and Thousand Dollar Clubs may be listed for special recognition. However, the important thing is that every alumnus does his very best in this 80th year of his alma mater's existence to meet the Fifty Thousand Dollar Alumni Challenge.

Industry Matches Alumni Giving

APPROXIMATELY 80 FIRMS across the nation are participating in the "corporate alumnus matching gift program" whereby gifts of employees to their alma mater are matched with a similar amount from the company.

Bridgewater College alumni who are employed in the firms listed below have the opportunity to thus double the effectiveness of their annual gift to the college. Already B. C. has benefited from this program to the extent of several hundreds of dollars.

Alumni of Bridgewater are urged to check the following list to see if their firm is included. The program simply is as follows: Joe Doaks '37 works for X corporation which has a matching program. Joe gives a certain sum of money to Bridgewater and certifies this fact by completing a form obtainable in the employer's office. This form and his gift he sends to the college. The business manager of B. C. completes the form and sends it to the proper company office. The firm then sends to the college the matching gift provided all conditions are met. (Some firms demand that an alumnus shall have been in their employee at least one year or that they be degree graduates.)

This is a very advantageous way for alumni to increase the effectiveness of their gift and for industry to support private higher education. The firms having such programs are:

Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp.

B. C. Harriers Little-8 Champs

DOC JOPSON'S cross-country team pulled the surprise of Virginia's fall teams by going undefeated in four dual meets, capturing third place in the first annual state collegiate cross-country meet at Lexington behind the strong V. M. I. and William & Mary squads, and breezing to the team title in the annual Little Eight cross-country meet at Hampden-Sydney. This was especially satisfying since B. C. dethroned the defending champion, Roanoke College, who has dominated the cinderpads for the last several years.

While some of last year's top harriers were lost by graduation, Dr. Jopson, assisted by Professor Paul Kline, a former B. C. great, developed a balanced and strong squad out of primarily green material. An indication of the team strength is revealed that in almost every meet a different B. C. runner led the pack. Mainstays were Larry Neff, Bill Nolen, Nelson Warren, Duward Starkey, Johnny Thompson, and Wallace Lutz.

To top off a championship season, the B. C. Harriers on November 21 at Washington College, Chestertown, Md., copped second place in the Mason-Dixon Cross-Country Championship Meet, only eight points behind Roanoke College, whom they defeated in the Little Eight meet earlier.

Grid Team Post 2-6 Season

COACH GUNSTEN'S football Eagles posted a season's record of two wins and six losses while rising up to beat Gallaudet and the Norfolk Apprentice School on successive Saturday afternoons, and biting the dust to Hampden-Sydney, Western Maryland, Guilford, Randolph-Macon, West Virginia Wesleyan, and Shepherd State College.

Seniors playing their last season for the Eagles were co-captains Lindy Woolfolk and Johnny Plumb, Gene Underwood, Dave Olsen, and Dale Foster. Next year's squad, as this year, should give promise of a good season with the number of upperclassmen due to return and with a good freshman potential. Perhaps the player who caught the imagination of all was Pete Ritchie, fleet halfback freshman who scampered 90 yards for the Eagles' first touchdown of the season in the opening game. We can expect to hear a lot more from him.

In the selections for the 1959 Little Eight football team by the Associated Press, four B. C. men were cited for honorable mention following the first team selections: Lindy Woolfolk, an end, Jeff Weaver, a tackle, Gene Underwood for the second straight year at tackle, and Pete Ritchie, a back.

Eaglette Hockey Season Successful

MISS RUTH TANDY pulled an inexperienced girls' hockey squad into a winning combination to take three wins, break even in three ties, and lose but one match.

The hockey team took two from Lynchburg and one from Madison College. Roanoke College proved the hottest competitor for in the two home and home matches, the results were the same, 1-1. Sixteen members of the squad participated in the annual Blue Ridge Hockey Tournament held this year at Hollins College. With Sweet Briar they battled to a 2-2 tie. The only team to defeat the Eaglettes this year, Mary Baldwin, took a 3-1 match as the climax of the tournament. Among the many standouts who will be greatly missed next year are seniors Allegra Hess and Sue Burkholder.

Hoopsters Open Basketball War

DANNY GEISER'S basketball Eagles opened a 21-game season which they hope will culminate in the Mason-Dixon final play-off in late February. Since early October twenty-eight varsity candidates have been out sharpening up their passing and shooting. After the football season closed Lindy Woolfolk, Dave Osborne, and Jim Paugh joined the largest squad in years. Competition is razor keen for varsity positions with only Sam Ritchie, Don Rader, and Tom Kincaid lost from last year's team.

Such men as Jim Reedy, last year's M-D point champion and the state's third highest scorer, Jim Wilson, lanky sophomore from W&L High, Ed Thomas, Brooklyn senior, Fred Diehl, husky track star, Lindy Woolfolk, football end, and a promising group of freshmen and returning regulars should give hope for an excellent season.

Defeat High Caliber Foes

The lid of the basketball season was kicked off by an unofficial game with the B. C. alumni just before Thanksgiving. Youth proved itself too strong though the former B. C. stars gave a good account of themselves, 112-78. The official season was opened with a series of home and home games with Washington and Lee University in which the Eagles took both games. Sandwiched in was a home game with VMI, of the Southern Conference, in which Bridgewater upset the Keydets, 70-68. Along with these forays into the big-time, the Eagles took its first Mason-Dixon foe, Randolph-Macon, 63-51. The holiday tournament as conducted last year in the B. C. gym during the Christmas holiday season was not repeated this year, primarily because of the low attendance. However the annual district high school tournament will again be played at Bridgewater at the close of the high school season.

Physical Therapist Services Available To Eagles

FOR THE FIRST TIME, the Eagle athletic teams have available the services of a professional physical therapist. Invaluable help was rendered to the football team by Mr. William C. McCue, new physical therapist at the Rockingham Memorial Hospital, Harrisonburg, Va.

Mr. McCue, a native of Lewisburg, W. Va., offered his services when he and his wife, Shirley, moved into the former home of Rudolph Glick, just off the campus. He is a graduate of the University of West Virginia and the Medical College of Virginia. He and his wife, a physical therapist at the Rockingham Cerebral Palsy Center, took graduate work at the Georgia

Warm Springs Foundation and at Duke University.

"Woody", as he is called, accompanied the football team on several of the away games as well as assisted on Riverside Field. His services were given freely to the Eagles as a "hobby" of his. He served the University of West Virginia Mountaineers in the same capacity when he was a student there. B. C. is fortunate in having available such a fine person, along with the splendid services of such physicians as Dr. Galen Craun and Dr. George Row who give professional medical supervision to the Eagle teams.

Robert "Bob" Winters '60 has been the student athletic trainer and has given invaluable service to the football and basketball teams for the past several years.

Piedmont Starts Air Service

THE LONG-SOUGHT scheduled air line service for the Shenandoah Valley Joint Airport, less than twenty miles from the B. C. campus, becomes a reality as the Piedmont Airlines includes the S. V. Airport on its flights between Washington and Roanoke.

The commercial airport, near Weyers Cave, Va., was constructed in 1957-58 at a cost of $600,000 to service the cities of Harrisonburg, Staunton, Waynesboro, and the surrounding Valley area. The Piedmont Airlines made application of the Civil Aeronautics Board to supply regularly scheduled service, but only recently was such permission finally granted.

For many years there has been a need for better and quicker transportation to and from Bridgewater and the metropolitan centers of the nation. The airline is proposing two flights daily out of the S. V. Airport, as stops on the Washington-Roanoke scheduled route. Tentative plans call for flights leaving Weyers Cave at 7:45 A. M., arriving in Washington at 8:32 A. M.; and at 5:41 P. M., arriving at Washington at 6:27 P. M. Flights will probably leave Washington at 6:15 P. M., arriving at Valley Airport at 7:08 P. M.; and at 10:30 P. M. and arrive at the Valley Airport at 11:23 P. M.

This additional public transportation service will undoubtedly benefit Bridgewater College by making it far more accessible than previously.
